Chapter 1 by -

I can't believe I'm doing this. I know it's not right, but how do I help it?

I'm going to back up a little bit here. Have you ever thought that you found true love? Going further, have you ever thought you found a *real*true love? That is me right now. I am married, yes, but I don't think I'm married to my true lover. I met her today, and we've already gone there. You know... There...

Whatever.

I'll just say it.

We had sex. And it was amazing.

I never thought I was in love with the wrong person. Don't get me wrong, I did love Jen, my wife, but it was never that true love I feel when I'm with Sherr. I know it's a classic "this-is-going-to-end-badly" line, but it was true love at first sight. It really was. Sherr is a beautiful women with long, wavy, brunette hair, and the most stunning hazel eyes I've ever seen. When I saw her on

She was everything and everywhere.

I was avoiding time with Jen. I make excuses, like "I have to run out. I will be back in a couple of hours." Then go to Sherr's house and we immediately embrace. How long can this last?

But, if I really did have some sort of future with Sherr, I had to break off my marriage. I didn't want to continue stringing Jen along when I did have feelings for her still.

So, today is that day. I'm going to break it to Jen.

I decided that I should do it in the best way possible. Jen wasn't the type to get angry for any reason, so I don't know why I was so worried.

I remember the look on her face when I told her. It was the most surprising thing to me. She had no surprise. She wasn't angry. She wasn't even sad.

That was when she told me

"I know Sherr." She said calmly. "Why do you think you liked her so much? I picked her out for you."

law of spring, I started to make

"There is something I've been wanting to tell you for a while...well...Sherr... and I...we...we are really good friends. I met her at work."

Holy shit is she trying to tell me...

Chapter 6 by Alyssa

"Well, I knew right off the bat that you would fall in love with her," She said, "Because I did too."

I must have looked like a fish, what with my mouth being open for so long.

"You.. You're.." I stammered.

"No, not gay." She explained "I just thought.. What with our marriage going through a rough spot and all... That maybe.. Maybe we needed her."

"We? As in you and me?" I said, gradually getting the idea.

"Yeah, I mean, I love you. And I know that you love me. But it's not the same as it was, and I think that this might be what we need!" She excitedly explained.
